Visiting Loch Ness

Lena and Ben are at Loch Ness in Scotland.

(Loch = Lake in Scottish)

Ben tells Lena about the story of Loch Ness and Nessie.
Read it and try to answer the questions.

For many years, the people living around Loch Ness tell the story of a “water beast” that lives in the lake. Loch Ness is a big lake in the Scottish Highlands, near the city of Inverness. Some say the beast or monster looks like a whale, others say it looks like a dinosaur or a dragon.

Over the years, many people think have seen the monster, have taken a picture of it or even filmed it. But up to now nobody could take a high-quality picture or movie of the creature.

People call the monster Nessie, and every year thousands of tourists from all over the world come to visit Loch Ness. They all hope to see the “water beast”.

In 1934, Dr. Kenneth Wilson took a picture of a swimming object in Loch Ness. It had a small head like a reptile and a long neck like a dinosaur.

60 years later, people found out, that a popular film director used a toy submarine and created the “monster” himself. It was just a big hoax (a joke).

So many adventurers, scientists and other people are still searching for Nessie.

Do you think somebody will manage to find it one day? Or is there no monster at all?
